MRS. ROBERT L. PARSONS.

A Business Woman Who Believes in the Broad Field For Women.

Mrs. Robert L. Parsons, head of the Chicago School of Physical Education and Expression, regards the indisputable fact that more and more married women are becoming prominently identified with business and professional life yearly as the natural culmination of many slow growing causes. It would be almost impossible, she believes, for other conditions to prevail. "Ambition, the sense of pleasurable power in successful accomplishment, these spur on the business or professional woman just as they do her husband or brother. The broader education for gloves or ribbons. If it happens to retain an odor of tobacco put it in the sunshine for a little time before proceeding to decorate it. Then cover the outside of the box with pretty colored linen. The inside is decorated firmly and the outside stretched tightly and held in place with little brass nails. The lining of the box will be all the better for a little padding of cotton wool sprinkled with sachet powder. The softness of the padding is attractive looking, and the perfume imparts a pleasant fragrance to the contents of the box. Smaller cigar boxes, covered with chamois leather or the wrist parts of long tan or gray evening gloves and prettily lined with satin, padded with cotton wool, make charming little jewel cases. These boxes should contain in one corner a small wash leather pincushion for brooches and lace pins and in another corner a tiny bag for rings.

MRS. ROBERT L. PARSONS.

tion now general among women gives at once the means and the possibility of telling work in the field outside the home. Of what use is this education unless applied to some practical purpose? This, I believe, is the underlying thought that lives in most thoughtful women. It is but another expression of the creative impulse common to all.

"As to the right or wrong of married women entering the business world it would seem difficult to me to come to any abstract decision. One woman can scarcely judge for another. Personally I cannot understand how any mother of young children can care to leave them for the sake of any outside endeavor, but there are plenty of women with no ties of this kind. And, as to the theory that the married woman in business is unjustly occupying the place of the unmarried worker who must earn her own bread and butter, the moment work becomes in the slightest degree individual or distinctive this theory is disproved. And I cannot think that the repression or elimination of the creative impulse that sends the otherwise unoccupied married woman out into the larger field could be productive of any good."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Be Independent.

The idea of the propriety of house-keeping as the work for women owes its origin to a very natural feeling that woman as well as man should do her part of the world's labor. It is only just. But man chooses his field; why not the woman? For what reason is she bound to confine herself to one kind of work if she can do another kind better, more profitably to her family and more in accordance with her nature and abilities?

Wherever a woman can best employ her powers, there is her sphere. As she lives best for herself, so she lives best for all those associated with her. The idea has obtained too long that woman's duty is to some one else. If it were in truth a thing so noble and excellent she would not so long have had a monopoly of it, says the Business Woman's Magazine.

"Woman's cause is man's cause; they must rise or fall together."

Are not women the mothers of men? There are many things women should know and practice.

Banish fear, worry and doubt.

Think your own thoughts. Live your own life. Others may advise, but they cannot see life from your point of view.

Saving Steps.

"Never go empty handed." This is what mother used to say to me so many times when I was a child. If I was going upstairs I must look about me and see if there wasn't something downstairs that belonged upstairs that I could carry up and put into its place, and so on from one part of the house to another. She always said it would be a great help in one's housekeeping and save lots of unnecessary steps if they would just remember that little rule, and, although I fall in many ways to practice all the good things she taught me, I very often find myself saying to the children as they help about the work, "Never go empty handed." Children have such a wonderfully unconscious way of walking right over things instead of picking them up and restoring them to their proper places. So I shall often repeat the little rule to them, partly to help them and partly to relieve my own feelings at their carelessness, and if they do not always obey the injunction now while they are young they may in after years remember it as one of mother's little helpful rules.—Boston Brown Book.

For a Ribbon Box.

A rather large cigar box makes a most useful and dainty looking receptacle.

Wanted Details.

"It was like this," said the private citizen. "Just as the three burglars crawled in at the kitchen window the clock struck 1, and—"

"Excuse me," said the great detective, "but which one of the three did the clock strike?"—Pittsburg Gazette.

"Tinted Spectacles For Beauty." "Tinted spectacles," said a New York optician who makes a specialty of them, "are mainly for women who demand that their beauty as well as their sight shall be considered. A light gray or a pale blue eye looks very weak and unattractive through ordinary eyeglasses. By slightly tinting the lens we can add very much to the color of the pupil of the eye and to the general attractiveness of the face. The tinting does not at all interfere with the magnifying properties of the glass. In fact, some oculists send us prescriptions for tinted glasses, maintaining that for blue or gray eyes they are far superior to the ordinary crystal glasses. Blue eyes absorb more light than brown eyes, and so any tempering of the sun's rays is sure to be beneficial."

The Boy's Room.

When a boy's room is not furnished with a couch the boy is extremely apt to lie on the bed to read, the chances of his removing his shoes or protecting the white spread before lying down being extremely slender. Rather than indulge in vain remonstrances banish the white spread altogether and substitute denim, blue, if it can be made to fit into the color scheme of the room. Have the center of the spread plain, with a border twelve to eighteen inches deep of figured denim, fleur-de-lis or something similar. The denim takes on a better color, as repeated washings dull its first brightness. It does not easily wrinkle, and the comfort of the boy is insured.

Hair for the Hair.

Hair experts say that if women keep on wearing pompadours it is only a question of time before they become bald. To be sure, it will not be quite so far reaching as a man's, but bad enough to destroy their good looks. As a forehead reaching to the middle of the crown is not considered a mark of beauty, it behooves women to "watch a little out" for the receding hair line. One way of preventing its becoming noticeable is when arranging the hair for the night to brush it in the opposite direction from which it has been worn all day. This rests the hair and keeps it from becoming warped in one direction.

The Dainty Desk.

Old brocade, or, rather, brocade in old time colorings and patterns, as well as tapestry, is being utilized with marked success for women's desk fittings. Blotters, paper and envelope racks, letter books, calendar frames, notebook racks, stamp and pen boxes, etc., show coverings of these soft, lined fabrics, quilt gift braid being employed for the finishing touch. Chintz is likewise used for desk sets, but the more delicate tinting of the other materials, tapestry particularly, has won for them a greater measure of popularity.

Cold Cream.

No toilet table is complete without a jar of cold cream made of oil of white poppy, four ounces; oil of almonds, two ounces; white wax, one-half ounce; balsam of Peru, two drams. Melt the wax, add the oils and beat together until they form a cream, then add the balsam and lastly a little rosewater. This is an emollient which may be used with good effect once or twice a week, after the bath, to whiten and soften the hands, neck and arms.

Red ink is easily made by amateurs who follow this recipe: Get a one ounce bottle and see that it is perfectly clean and dry. Place in it one teaspoonful of aqua ammonia, gum arabic the size of two pens, and add six grains of carmine. Fill up the bottle with clear soft water, and after standing a little while it will be fit for use.

An Obstinate Family.

Cholmondeley—I thought you intended to marry Miss Wealthington? Dolmondeley—I thought so, too; but her family objected. Cholmondeley—What did Miss Wealthington say? Dolmondeley—Oh, she's one of the family, you know.

Things He Knew.

His Wife—Why don't you go to the doctor and find out just what you ought to eat and what you ought to avoid? Dyspeptic—Oh, I know all that now! I ought to eat everything I don't like and avoid everything I do.

Just the Reverse.

Stranger to highlander in full uniform—Sandy, are you cold with the kilt? Sandy—Na, mon, but I'm nigh kilt wi' the cauld.

Mind is the beginning of civilization, but the ends and fruitage thereof are of the heart.

Colds Are Dangerous.

How often you hear it remarked "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant to take. Sold by G. C. Stone, druggist.

An Interrupted Prayer.

When Meredith P. Gentry was defeated for the governorship of Tennessee by Andrew Johnson, afterward president, he was much chagrined, principally, he said, because he "had been run over by that great calf," as he contemptuously designated Johnson. Gentry's melancholy over the result of the election increased as time passed, and he went into a decline. So some of his friends visited him in order to cheer him up and, as was the custom in those days, emptied several demijohns of whiskey during the evening. It was very late before they thought of retiring, and then Gentry announced that as there was a clergyman present (Parson Brownlow) he would request him to offer up a prayer before the company went to bed. Brother Brownlow, whose specialty was exhortation, began to pray. He included everything in his petition and at last said, "And, O Lord, if in thy infinite mercy it be possible, have mercy also upon Andrew Johnson." Gentry was on his feet in an instant. "Stop, Mr. Brownlow; stop!" he exclaimed. "You will exhaust the fount of infinite mercy!"

Well Again.

The many friends of John Blount will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from his attack of rheumatism. Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured him after the best doctors in the town (Monon, Ind.) had failed to give relief. The prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by G. C. Stone, druggist.

The Olive.

The olive has been applied for various medicinal purposes since old Rameses I. held sway over his dark skinned subjects in northern Africa. In the days of ancient Rome the leaves and bark of the tree were used by the remarkable medical experts of that time to allay and cure violent attacks of intermittent fever, while the resins from which exuded from the tree in the hot season was used for many of the ills to which flesh is heir. The oil of the olive itself later was used by the Roman athletes to soothe their heated bodies after indulging in heroic attempts to break the early records for 100 yard dashes and putting the discus or shot. Then the oil of the olive was employed as an extraordinary panacea, guaranteed to stop the ravages of all ailments. Last of all, in more modern times the women of our own day use the olive oil in the form of soap to beautify the complexion by softening the pores and nourishing the skin itself.

READ IT THROUGH.

"'Twould Spoil This Story to Tell It in the Headlines."

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "over true tale." Having happened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902, it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favor. I hope all who read this will try it and be convinced as I was." For sale by G. C. Stone, druggist.

One Sided Sport.

A London paper tells a story of a certain shortsighted sportsman. He was asked one morning by a fellow sportsman in a small hotel on the shores of Loch Carron what sport he had had. "Just seen a seal," he said. "Shot at it three times and missed it each time." At dinner, an hour later, he sat next to a man with a bandage round his head. "Accident?" he inquired. "Accident?" was the indignant response. "Attempted murder, you mean. I was having a bath about an hour ago when some lunatic fired at me three times from the shore and shot part of my ear off." "Wonder who it could have been?" murmured the sportsman, and then he changed the conversation.

A Story of Storey.

An English paper tells a little anecdote of the distinguished painter Storey in his capacity of teacher of perspective at the Royal Academy. On one occasion Mr. Storey accepted an invitation to dine with the wealthy—and Philistine—father of one of his pupils. Over the undeniable pot he by no means doing parent inquired how his son was getting on, and, although the kindest of men, Mr. Storey could not bring himself to say much that was favorable. "Humph!" grunted the man of money. "Well, I hope he will turn out an artist, for I am quite sure he's not fit to be anything else."

Present in Japan.

The foreigners should beware of making presents to any Japanese girl unless he is bent upon matrimony. To present her with any sort of a gift, even though it be only a posy, will be regarded as a proposal of marriage, and to accept the present, though not a word of love or matrimony be passed, is a sign that she accepts you. Gallant Americans have got into serious trouble and found it necessary to leave the country at night to escape a binding engagement which they thoughtlessly incurred by giving to a maiden some trifle.

If it's a bilious attack, take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and a quick recovery is certain. For sale by G. C. Stone, druggist.

Wakeful Children.

For a long time the two year old child of Mr. P. L. McPherson, 59 N. Tenth St., Harrisburg, Pa., would sleep but two or three hours in the early part of the night, which made it very hard for her parents. Her mother concluded that the child had stomach trouble, and gave her half of one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which quieted her stomach and she slept the whole night through. Two boxes of these tablets have effected a permanent cure and she is now well and strong. For sale by G. C. Stone, druggist.
